North 16th Street Historic District

Character-defining features include but are not limited to: Various sized 1 to 2-1/2 story (with high floor to ceiling dimensions) structures, from large footprint warehouse/distribution/manufacturing structures to smaller accessory structures and commercial structures; primarily industrial type with large truck bays and several with concrete loading docks and truck ramps which are primarily located along the east/west streets in the district; also commercial type structures with showroom windows, generally along N. 16th St.; most structures built to property lines and oriented to transportation alignments, whether streets or rail lines, for car, truck and rail related operations, with some exterior walls curving along the rail spur alignments; most east/west streets and rail spur alignments are not developed with standard curbs/gutters/sidewalks/planter strips/street trees since were given over to support the uses' transport/loading/unloading functions; many structures exhibit brick exteriors with various types of brick-work and decorative cornices, parapets, blind arches, etc., and while most unpainted, some are painted brick. Buildings with parapets surrounding flat/bowed roofs exhibit various parapet shapes, including stepped, arched and other. Other exterior materials include corrugated metal, reinforced concrete, concrete block, plaster, and wood siding, and several exhibit corrugated metal and Spanish tile roofs. Many with industrial metal sash windows. Interiors of many are large open areas; wood timber truss or metal support structures.
