Candidate Statement:

When I co-founded the youth nonprofit Improve Your Tomorrow nine years ago, I could not have imagined the impact it would create. Today, we've helped thousands of our community's youth get closer to their college dream, many of whom are the first in their family. Serving our youth and ensuring a brighter future is my life's purpose.

But progress in our city has been slow. Homelessness is skyrocketing. The city hasn't moved quickly enough to get people off the streets and ensure communities are kept safe. Affordable housing is still unattainable. We're reeling from COVID-19, and our small businesses are struggling to stay afloat and hire qualified talent.

We need a new vision. That's why I'm running for City Council, where I will increase investments in youth by improving career pathways, internships, and access to educational opportunities; increase the supply of housing through state and federal investments; help get people off the streets and into services, reclaiming our public spaces; and deploy resources to our small businesses to help them thrive.

I'm not another politician making empty promises. I have the experience to bring people together to solve our most pressing challenges. I'd be honored to earn your vote.
