Every effort shall be taken to follow these procedures, however, there are instances when due to certain constraints such as time of day, staffing limitations, time-efficiency, and needs of the family, that strict procedural adherence will not be possible.       NOTE: There are many networks, associations and friendships between officers and employees of the Department. While "friends" may sincerely wish to get involved, it is necessary to consider the emotional implications of unethical and incomplete notifications on concerned family members. Therefore, employees shall not take it upon themselves to notify family members prior to official Department notification unless they can articulate a reasonable necessity, which is in the best interests of the family members who are closest to the involved employee.
