FROM THE PRESERVATION DIRECTOR

Last Sunday, at The Beverly Hilton in Los Angeles (think Elizabeth Taylor, Lucille Ball and JFK), the California Preservation Foundation presented its 2006 Preservation Design Awards. Two Sacramento projects were honored:

The Leland Stanford Mansion restoration/rehabilitation project won the Trustees Award for Excellence in Historic Preservation, recognizing the work undertaken by California State Parks and the Leland Stanford Mansion Foundation.

The award for Contextual Infill went to the City of Sacramento's New City Hall project, recognizing the work of Fentress Bradburn Architects and the City of Sacramento. The harmonious integration of the new with the historic was cited in the Awards Jury's selection.
