Today Mayor Johnson shared his thoughts on the Sacramento First Task Force public hearing:

"I'm encouraged to see four quality teams putting forth four quality proposals. It shows that people with real business savvy are concluding that a new complex that protects taxpayers and maximizing economic activity is possible.

"The competition is great for the city, because it gives us more options and ensures we move forward from a position of strength.

"That said, we're still early in the process. The public hearing is a great step forward, but we all know these types of deals are not easy- even in the best of times. But, the task force is doing great work and I look forward to reading their upcoming analysis along with my Council colleagues at the end of the month."
