"I just can't hear on the phone, but with Hamilton CapTel®, I can see what they say."

Captioned Telephone

Captioned Telephone (CapTel®) is a free service that allows users to listen to their phone conversations while reading word-for-word captions of what's said to them. Through the use of a uniquely designed CapTel phone, users speak directly to the other party while they listen and read what's said on the bright, built-in display screen of the CapTel phone.

Who benefits from CapTel?

- People who experience significant hearing loss and have intelligible speech
- People who communicate with individuals who experience difficulty hearing over the phone

How it works

Captioned telephone service works through the use of a CapTel phone which functions like a traditional phone, with an essential difference: it displays every word the other party says throughout the conversation.

Behind the scenes, a specially trained operator at the captioning center uses voice recognition technology to convert everything the standard phone user says into captions that appear on the bright, easy-to-read display screen of the CapTel phone. Captions are available in English or Spanish.
